

We have the opportunity each day of our lives to follow the Savior's example of greater love in the way we interact with and treat those around us, including those who may be unkind to us. As we take His name upon us and follow His example of treating others with greater love, we will feel His greater love for us, which will lift us and transform us to eventually become like Him.

Sister J. Anette Dennis

Reflection:

- Where in my daily life do I tend to "withhold" love—and what would it look like to love more like Christ in those moments?
- How can I move from thinking of love as a feeling to practicing it as consistent, intentional actions?
- Who is someone in my life that is difficult to love right now—and what is one small Christlike thing I could do for them this week?

We have the opportunity each day of our lives to follow the Savior's example of greater love in the way we interact with and treat those around us, including those who may be unkind to us. As we take His name upon us and follow His example of treating others with greater love, we will feel His greater love for us, which will lift us and transform us to eventually become like Him.

Sister J. Anette Dennis

Reflection:

- Where in my daily life do I tend to "withhold" love—and what would it look like to love more like Christ in those moments?
- How can I move from thinking of love as a feeling to practicing it as consistent, intentional actions?
- Who is someone in my life that is difficult to love right now—and what is one small Christlike thing I could do for them this week?

We have the opportunity each day of our lives to follow the Savior's example of greater love in the way we interact with and treat those around us, including those who may be unkind to us. As we take His name upon us and follow His example of treating others with greater love, we will feel His greater love for us, which will lift us and transform us to eventually become like Him.

Sister J. Anette Dennis

Reflection:

- Where in my daily life do I tend to "withhold" love—and what would it look like to love more like Christ in those moments?
- How can I move from thinking of love as a feeling to practicing it as consistent, intentional actions?
- Who is someone in my life that is difficult to love right now—and what is one small Christlike thing I could do for them this week?

We have the opportunity each day of our lives to follow the Savior's example of greater love in the way we interact with and treat those around us, including those who may be unkind to us. As we take His name upon us and follow His example of treating others with greater love, we will feel His greater love for us, which will lift us and transform us to eventually become like Him.

Sister J. Anette Dennis

Reflection:

- Where in my daily life do I tend to "withhold" love—and what would it look like to love more like Christ in those moments?
- How can I move from thinking of love as a feeling to practicing it as consistent, intentional actions?
- Who is someone in my life that is difficult to love right now—and what is one small Christlike thing I could do for them this week?